

'Twas the week before Christmas Break

By Clement Clarke Moore
Adapted by: Mrs. Sias & Ms. Kelly

'Twas the week before Christmas, when all through the school,
Not a student was listening, to not even one rule.
The teachers were thinking, "oh how will we fare?"
In hopes that the Christmas Spirit soon would be there.

The teachers together all whispered and schemed,
With a vision to celebrate the days with a theme!
On Monday, we'll dress up in all white and red
"We'll look just like candy canes," Ms. Sias said.

Then on Tuesday we'll put on such cheery headwear,
Bring a hat for your friend if you have one to spare!
Let's all be creative, inventive, who knows?
Grab some antlers, a Santa hat, or even ten bows!

On Wednesday come dressed in your fine Christmas sweater,
Or anything festive, how can this get better?
Our exuberant C.K.E.S spirit will surely be seen
Make your own unique sweatshirt, whether orange, white or green!

With Thursday upon us we will take to the stage
The script for the concert will leap from the page!
Wear an outfit that makes yourself sparkle and shine
Don't worry, stay calm, everything will be fine!

Now, parents! Now, students! Custodians and Teachers!
On, admin assistants! On, EAs, On all our school leaders!
"Let's play outside!" all the students will call!
Now dash away! Dash Away! Dash away all!

As Friday arrives, wear your comfy pajamas,
with Pikachu, unicorns or even some Llamas.
We'll all have to say 'fore we fade out of sight
"Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night!"
